

Always there: the figures of 2013

How many police officers are employed by the National Police and how many calls did the police emergency number receive in a year? What is the amount of drugs seized? And how many arrests were made? You can find the answers to these and many other questions in a document which collects data on the most significant activities carried out by the Italian National Police in 2013. According to the report almost 8 million people called the police emergency number 113 last year. Perhaps this is the most significant figure that confirms the commitment of the National Police to the country and its citizens. The report also provides the objectives achieved in a year by the various police special units.

Italian

08/05/2014